- Answers in Genesis: A Reply to Bruce Gordon’s Biblical Critique of Young-Earth Creationism
  - Ashby L. Camp’s response to the Biblical criticisms recently leveled by Bruce Gordon against young earth creationism.
  - Somewhat technical. (24 pages)

- Answers in Genesis: Is Young-Earth Creationism a Bad Choice?
  - Callie Joubert answers the recent claim by a prominent theistic evolutionist that young-earth creationism has reached a point of intellectual bankruptcy, both in its science and theology; young-earth creationism is an unnecessary choice.
  - Refutes theistic evolution. Somewhat technical. (12 pages)

- Answers in Genesis: The Nature of the Neo-Darwinian Evangelicals’ Criticism of Young-Earth Creationists
  - Jim Owen presents personal reflections on a tale of misadventures with history.
  - Great article! (18 pages)

- ICR: The Age of the Earth’s Atmosphere Estimated by its Helium Content
  - Larry Vardiman, Ph.D. If the earth is billions of years old, the radioactive production of helium in the earth’s crust should have added a large quantity of helium to its atmosphere.
  - Current diffusion models all indicate that helium escapes to space from the atmosphere at a rate much less than its production rate.
  - The low concentration of helium actually measured would suggest that the earth’s atmosphere must be quite young. Technical. (7 pages)
